Meet Toussaint Louverture

A historical explorer activity inspired by The Opening to Freedom

Toussaint Louverture (1743–1803) was a leader in the Haitian Revolution.

His story invites us to learn about freedom, courage, and history.

COLOR THE DISCOVERY COMPASS

What does discovery mean to you?

A Story Worth Discovering

Read together, then talk about what you learned.

01 Toussaint Louverture lived on the island of Saint-Domingue, now part of Haiti.

02 He became an important leader during a revolution against slavery and colonial rule.

03 His life reminds us that history is shaped by people, choices, and difficult questions.

04 Toussaint died in 1803. Haiti declared independence in 1804, after his death.

TALK TOGETHER

What is one new fact you learned?

What question would you ask a historian?

Why is it important to check when events happened?

Historical companion text: editorial review required before public educational release.

Look Closer!

Explore clues, observations, and questions.

DRAW THREE CLUES THAT HELP TELL A HISTORY STORY

A person A place An object

What is something you can observe?

_____

What is something you still need to investigate?

_____

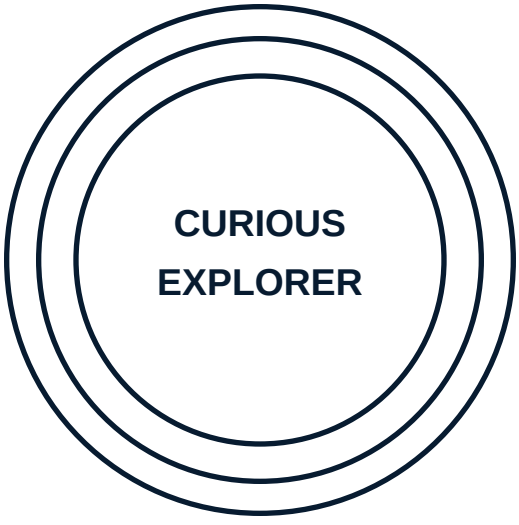

Your Explorer Mission

Finish the adventure and celebrate your curiosity.

MY DISCOVERY CHECKLIST

- ☐ I explored a real historical story.
- ☐ I colored or drew something imaginative.
- ☐ I asked a question.
- ☐ I shared one discovery with my grown-up.

DISCOVERY STAMP 001

The adventure continues in Toussaint Louverture: The Opening to Freedom (in development).